Land Art Generator

Application closes December 31, 2026

Project Manager

Full-time · $89,000 USD a year plus benefits · Remote hybrid · Two-year term through end of 2028.

About Land Art Generator

The Land Art Generator Initiative is a nonprofit founded in 2008 to leverage the power of art and design to accelerate the global response to climate change. LAGI works with communities around the world to bring forward site-specific installations that generate renewable energy, harvest water, and provide other human support systems at a variety of scales. These projects are working infrastructure designed to deliver community co-benefits and shared land uses alongside the power they produce.

Through nine open-call international design competitions, three invited design competitions, and participatory design projects with communities, LAGI stewards a portfolio of thousands of design solutions and a collective of tens of thousands of innovators around the world committed to a post-carbon future that is beautiful, equitable, and prosperous.

We are now building some of those proposals with communities and are expanding the team to help us accomplish this.

About the Position

LAGI artworks are moving out of concept and into detailed design and construction with municipal clients, engineering consultants, fabricators, utilities, funders and communities all involved. At the same time, the organization continues to work with communities to bring forward new concepts through competitions and other methods.

You will work with the LAGI Directors to deliver a broad range of programming: from competition management to construction and to ensure projects are delivered on schedule, on scope, and on budget as designed.

You will represent LAGI throughout the process of project development. Some of the work will be helping the directors to manage the consultants and vendors who will be providing services. Some of the work will be engaging with the communities where the projects are being co-designed and built.

Along the way you will also participate in the creation of creative assets, sketches, diagrams, and will help to create and edit documents of all sorts.

Every day is unique and there is a great opportunity to experience projects from conceptualization of design procurement through ribbon-cutting and events.

We are looking for someone who is passionate about the role of art and design to address social and environmental challenges.

What you will do

- Help to maintain schedules across concurrent projects and hold consultants and fabricators to those schedules
- Coordinate and oversee the work of artists, architects, engineers, fabricators, clients and community partners
- Oversee consultant-led construction administration, including RFI and submittal turnaround, shop drawing reviews, site observations and punch lists, verifying they are performed well and on time
- Establish and run document control, version management and project records
- Track comments and decisions through to resolution and maintain the audit trail
- Support the co-directors in scoping, structuring, and developing new projects
- Assist the co-directors in developing guidelines, reports, and other documentation for clients and project partners
- Assist the co-directors in developing creative assets and communicating with the public
- Assist the co-directors in facilitating community engagement and participatory design processes for projects

Experience

Required

- Five years managing or helping to oversee design, art, or construction projects, including work on the owner's or client's side
- A degree in architecture, landscape architecture, engineering, industrial design or a related design discipline
- Command of project management methods and an interest in building and improving delivery processes
- Working knowledge of at least one project management platform
- Ability to quickly read, understand, mark up, and exchange drawings and specifications with consultants
- Able to work flexibly, be self-directed, and manage tasks independently with minimal supervision
- Graphic design and communications skills

Valued, but not required

- PMP, CAPM, LEED AP, RA or PE
- Public art, cultural infrastructure or civic project experience
- Public-sector clients: procurement, permitting, review boards, capital processes
- Renewable energy literacy
- International project experience is a plus

Terms and How to Apply

This role is funded through the end of 2028. We cannot promise employment after that.
We intend to extend it if future funding allows.

Compensation

$89,000 USD per year for a two-year term.

Benefits

- Health. Benefits provided with employer contribution
- Paid time off. Four weeks of paid time off, inclusive of holidays.
- Provided. Equipment, software licenses, professional dues, professional development

Location and Travel

We are based in the Pittsburgh area and do not maintain a traditional office. We work from a home studio and wherever our projects take us, with an emphasis on flexibility and regular in-person collaboration. You will travel occasionally to project sites.

How to Apply

Email lagi@landartgenerator.org with “LAGI Project Manager” in the subject line and send:

- Resume / CV
- Work samples, ten pages maximum, showing projects you managed, with your specific role stated plainly for each.
- A letter telling us why you want to work with the Land Art Generator.

We will read every application and will confirm receipt and tell you where you stand.

First review begins 1 December 2026. Applications accepted until 31 December 2026. Anticipated start, January / February 2027.
